ARLO & JACOB

Launched in 2015 (and named after the founder's children), Arlo & Jacob's mission is to create forever-lasting sofas and upholstered pieces ready for family life – the jumping, the fort-making, the spills, the snuggling. The brand's contemporary designs come in all shapes and sizes, some of which have a trick up their sleeve – hidden inner compartments waiting to house throws, cushions and anything that needs hiding beneath inviting, expertly executed upholstery. As with the wider collection, there's an entire library's worth of fabric and colour choices to choose from to conceal your secrets within.

Charlotte bookcase designed by Shannon Sadler, from €4,842.18, Bontempi Casa

BONTEMPI CASA

Bontempi Casa's story began in 1963 in small Italian town Camerano, where its HQ remains. The brand's furniture balances tradition and innovation, with cutting-edge technology seeing it evolve to meet the needs of increasingly demanding design fans while retaining the charm of a family-run company. Storage-wise its collection starts at magazine racks and coat hangers, passing through units of all sizes until it reaches bookcases and wall-to-ceiling-shelves, each piece exquisitely made from long-lasting, high-quality materials.

BIBBINGS & HENSBY

With an impressive social media fan base and its own online course (sign up to learn how to craft a three-legged stool), Bibbings & Hensby is bringing traditional furniture-making methods bang up to date. The east London-based duo focus on contemporary designs that honour the age-old craft skills that most of their making process centres around. The cabinet collection caters to all size requirements, each piece finished with thoughtful detailing.
